Decameron Web Awarded Grant

The Decameron Web (http://www.brown.edu/Research/Decameron) has recently been awarded a substantial grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities to foster the site's future growth. Now in its fourth year of existence, the project is growing at an unprecedented rate: there are already over 800 subscribers to the mailing list and the number grows daily. True to its original intention to provide free access to a hypermedia archive of information related to Boccaccio and his masterpiece, the Decameron Web will launch three new projects in the upcoming months: the first content-oriented SGML markup of the Italian text (18 months in the making); a pedagogy model for the sharing of teaching materials; and an online journal for the publication of scholarly articles, notes, pre-prints, book reviews, etc. For more information, contact Michael Papio, editor of the Decameron Web (papio@brown.edu).

MLA Volume Accepted for Publication

The MLA has accepted for publication the volume Approaches to Teaching Boccaccio's Decameron, edited by James McGregor. The volume includes essays by many noteworthy Boccaccists and members of the Association, including Janet Smarr, Robert Hollander, Aldo Scaglione, Steven Grossvogel, Victoria Kirkham, and McGregor himself. We'll keep you posted as the publication date nears.

Dues Reminder

If you have not yet paid your annual dues ($5 regular member/$15 sustaining member), please send your check or money order (Canadian members: US funds, please), together with your name and mailing address, to the Editor. We've provided our convenient form, which enables you to pay for one year ($5) or two ($10).

Also, please remember to check your address label: you'll see a date in the upper right-hand corner. That's the expiration date of your Boccaccio Association membership. We hope this feature will help you keep track of when your dues are due.
