The GIUSEPPE VELLI PRIZE
FOR THE BEST GRADUATE STUDENT ESSAY ON BOCCACCIO

Thanks to an anonymous donor, this year (2014) the American Boccaccio Association introduces an annual prize competition for the best graduate student essay on a subject related to the life or works of Giovanni Boccaccio. The Giuseppe Velli Prize of two hundred and fifty dollars will be awarded to the best essay submitted by a graduate student in any American or Canadian University or by anyone not currently enrolled as a graduate student, provided that he or she has received the degree of M.A. or Ph.D. within one year of submission. The winning essay will also be automatically considered for publication in Heliotropia.

All submissions must be made by email attachment in Word and sent to the secretary of the American Boccaccio Association. No hardcopy submissions will be accepted. The essays should be no longer than 7500 words, including bibliography and other related material. The deadline for submission is 30 June of each year.

The author should provide a cover page (as the first page of the file) containing the author’s name, email, mailing and email addresses, the title of the essay and institutional affiliation. The author’s name should not appear on the essay title page (to follow the cover page) or on any other page of the essay, since the essays are submitted anonymously to the readers. Quotations from Boccaccio’s works should be cited in the original language, and the format of the essay should conform to MLA Style Sheet guidelines.

Submissions will be judged by the officers of the American Boccaccio Association. The results will be announced in early autumn and published in the fall issue of the ABA Newsletter. While the essays remain the intellectual property of their authors, the submitted texts will not be returned to them.

The American Boccaccio Association has established this annual award in commemoration of the scholarship of Giuseppe Velli. Professor Velli (1928-2013), was a remarkable Boccaccio scholar whose work remains fundamental in Italy and North America to this day. As a young man, he studied at the Scuola Normale di Pisa and elsewhere with the likes of Giorgio Pasquali, Luigi Russo, Alessandro Perosa, Paul Oskar Kristeller, Augusto Campana and Reto Bezzola. Upon the completion of his studies, he spent several years teaching abroad, first holding appointments in Paris and New York before taking an assistant professorship at the University of California Los Angeles and later a post as full professor at Smith College. Afterwards, he returned to Italy where he taught Letteratura umanistica at the Università di Macerata, Letteratura italiana e filologia dantesca at the Università di Venezia and lastly as professor of Italian literature at the Università degli Studi di Milano. Beginning in the 1980s, he maintained an important presence in the United States as a visiting scholar at UCLA, Johns Hopkins University, the University of North Carolina Chapel Hill and Indiana University. Professor Velli’s studies ranged widely, but the ABA is particularly appreciative of his work on Boccaccio. His work, including the edition of the Carmina for Mondadori’s “Tutte le opere” series and his famous volume entitled Petrarcha e Boccaccio. Tradizione · memoria · scrittura (1995), helped enhance our understanding of: the patterns of intertextuality between Boccaccio’s works and classical literature; the relationship between Boccaccio and Petrarch; and the modus operandi of Boccaccio at his scriptorium. Essays on these topics are particularly welcome.
It is our pleasure to inform you that the Lectura Boccaccii 3, Decameron: Third Day in Perspective, edited by Francesco Ciabattoni and Pier Massimo Forni, has been published and it is now available to be purchased by your library at the following website:

One of the initiatives that the ABA has promoted during the centenary year and that has matured in 2014 is the revitalization of the Lectura Boccaccii. This year has seen the issuing of Volume 3, whereas Volume 2, edited by Victoria Kirkham, and Volume 4, edited by Michael Sherberg, are in their final stages of development.

In order for the publication of the critical readings of the giornate to proceed at a similar sustained pace also in the future, a new format for the series has been adopted in consultation with the Acquisition Editor at the University of Toronto Press. Rather than proceeding sequentially, one Decameron day at the time, the Press has accepted to develop the remaining volumes in parallel.

The following colleagues have volunteered their work as editors of the Lectura Boccaccii volumes, and they are ready to evaluate proposals for the individual lecturae.

Day 5: Jason Houston, University of Oklahoma (jason.houston@uo.edu)
Day 6: David Lummus, Stanford University (dlummus@stanford.edu)
Day 7: Elsa Filosa, Vanderbilt University (elsa.filosa@vanderbilt.edu)
Day 8: William Robins, University of Toronto (William.robins@utoronto.ca)
Day 9: Susanna Barsella, Fordham University (barsella@fordham.edu)
   & Simone Marchesi, Princeton University (simonem@princeton.edu)
Day 10: Michael Papio, University of Massachusetts (papio@hfa.umass.edu)

Please, feel free to contact them for submitting a proposal.

The Unity of Knowledge

Internationally renowned scholars are invited to discuss and rethink the historical, intellectual, and literary roles of Petrarch and Boccaccio between the great model of Dante’s encyclopedia, and the ideas of a double or multifaceted culture in the era of Italian Renaissance Humanism. In his lyrical poems and Latin treatises, Petrarch, on the one hand, created a cultural pattern that was both Christian and Classical, exercising immense influence on the Western World in the centuries to come. Boccaccio, on the other hand, translated this pattern into his own vernacular narratives and erudite works, ultimately claiming as his own achievement the reconstructed unity of the Ancient Greek and Latin world in his contemporary age. The conference aims to reconsider Petrarch’s and Boccaccio’s intellectual and literary heritages from different perspectives (philosophy, theology, history, philology, paleography, literature, theory), and to investigate how these heritages shaped the cultural transition between the end of the Middle Ages and the Early Modern Era, as well as our common European identity.
